SUMMER 2015

Uniting humanities, art, community & culture

New Programs, New President

The board of the History, Arts and Cultural Association put the peaceful Minnesota winter to good use. Last year we asked for community input on development and programs, and now we are putting new ideas into motion, strengthening programs launched last year and adding unique ones. In addition to the activities contained in this newsletter, we will continue to forge partnerships to bring more opportunities in humanities, art and culture throughout the year. Already in 2015, we have hosted a nationally touring art and humanities exhibit, and a theatrical and humanities exhibit.

In addition to working with our financial partners on the development of the ITOW Museum building, the board has been hard at work with their annual report, annual meeting and retreat, facilitated by West Central Initiative. We welcomed two new board members, and installed a new president, Karen Crabtree.

"The success HACA has had in overcoming obstacles speaks to the commitment of our community to support meaningful humanities, art, community and culture," said Crabtree. "As we move forward, we are dedicated to building a solid foundation and relationship with our community to provide opportunities that enhance our lives."

There are still challenges to tackle. While the building work is being privately funded, we fell short on our sustainability campaign, and that may affect programs. We ask that you consider submitting the membership form in this newsletter, or sponsor a program. Also, continue to give us your ideas and feedback. Most of all, attend and enjoy HACA programs—most are free or low cost. It's the best indicator that East Otter Tail County residents value their cultural offerings and want them to continue to thrive and grow.

"It's all about moving forward together," concluded Crabtree.

“What Freedom Means to Me”

Enter HACA's 2nd Annual Photo/Essay Competition Now! The community is asked to communicate “what freedom means to me” through original photography supported by a short essay. Be recognized for your creativity, and be richly rewarded!

New this year is a revised rating system emphasizing photography that tells a strong story exemplifying this powerful theme. The short essay, which will receive less points, is intended to support the photographic images (think long caption). Submissions can be a single image or a series of three images.

The Photo Essay Competition has great exposure for new or experienced artists, with entries displayed in the HACA Art and Events Gallery, and the final selections displayed at Pioneer Fest. The top three photographers will receive a framed reproduction of their work and a cash award. Also, each year's top winner has their artwork featured in a permanent legacy collection in HACA's Art & Events gallery.

Entry forms are available online at facebook.com/historyartsculture, or at ITOW Veterans Museum, Photo Magic, Bremer Bank and Perham Office Supply in Perham.
